FRIDAY, JANUARY 9, 1852.

THE INDIANS AGAIN.

NOT many days have elapsed since our Minister of War returned from his tour of the Santa Fe frontier, bringing as the flattering news that he had completely restored security to the exposed districts, the Indians fleeing away from his august presence, like frightened ostriches, to the recesses of the Grand Chaco & the pathless wilds of the Pampas. Those who put confidence in the General's epaulets thought we should scarcely require any frontier pieces, the savages being so overawed as not to dare show themselves for some time. Alas! for the vanity of earthly expectation. A handful of red men rushes into the Brigade, just when General Deilly is receiving the congratulations of his friends at Rosario Arms and sending his aid-de-camp to the newly shook the intruders are so immoral and unjust as to steal 2000 head of cattle from the estancia of Lezica; say, they even raped forty horses and kill two persons who attacked them.

It would be, however, infra dig for our Minister to go in pursuit of the Bedouins, about whom there is much uncertainty as to their number, whereabouts, & intended movements. Some say they did not exceed 30; others estimate them at 200. It is supposed they are of Calfucura's adherents; but the report is not confirmed, & that they have robbed and murdered with impunity. We are indeed rather surprised that a few dozen of unarmed savages could not be successfully opposed by the neighbours. Within a league and a half of the Brigade the population ought to muster a sufficient force, without any military protection, to repel such straggling parties of naked marauders. At the same time it cannot be denied that Government is greatly to blame, and the inhabitants of Bragado; who pay taxes, have a right to expect protection. The Tribuna correspondent states that the frontier is completely abandoned, life and property being thus placed at the mercy of the Indians In fact if our rulers wished to ruin our internal prospects they have commenced a suitable policy.

A group of 10 Irish families, well armed, would have driven the 40 or 50 savages from St Lezica's estancia. The Governor of Mendoza is so convinced of the superiority of immigration, as a barrier against such inroads, that it very properly offers land, seed, implements, etc. Troops are at times on a young state, being the drones of society: immigrants, in the other hand, enrich the country in ratio with their own fortunes. It is clear that when Bragado becomes as populous as Luxan, we shall not hear of the Indians coming up to the walls. Dr Acosta, meanwhile, as the enemy of Mr Wheelright, fancies our camps will increase in value by depopulation Could it right to say the same principle found favour in support of the cause of Ireland in late years) Hence the Prov. Gov. instead of offering land at a premium to settlers, has set down an estimate of 1400 pesos beyond the Salado, down to oblige many to abandon camp life.

We can do no thing in the way of camp progress, so long as such a man is such a policy are pursued in the Ministry of Government. When we attack corrupt or negligent officials, their executioners Doctores Acosta and Varela clap their hands and call us public enemies. When we advise immigration and free grants, the penned camp minister doubles the price of land, and laughs at our shallowness of perception. When we import cotton seed and [illegible] Cuyenos accuse us with intentions to conquer Patagonia. In fine, when we say they have gone the wrong way about settling the Indians, they leave the frontier unprotected.

The Ministry of War and Marine is no longer necessary, but we want an Indian commissioner. How can we expect morality among red men, if we plunder them of their hunting grounds. What friendly ties do we expect to cultivate by shooting them in cold blood? Why are we surprised at their retaliation?

Let Gen. Gelly make another expedition to the frontier, to peaceably our noble neighbours, but if he desires to be successful in this, take our chapter of instructions which an able writer in the Nacion Argentina re produced, with the confession that "it is the only method of putting an end to Indian invasions."

STUBBORN FACTS.

On the 30th of May 1855, the Legislature of Santa Fe passed a law authorizing the sale of Government lands, and directing how the proceeds should be applied.

On the 5th of October 1855, another law was passed by the same Legislature, authorizing the sale of Government lands, and directing how the proceeds should be applied.

On the 22nd of October 1855, the Legislature of Santa Fe passed a law authorizing the supporting of duties made by virtue of the preceding act.

Of course the purchasers considered that the title to their property was perfectly good, and generally speaking, such title are clear (and beyond all question) but unhappily, in Santa Fe, such is not the case, and the worst and most illusory investment is Government land purchased.

On the 31st October 1852, the Legislature of Santa Fe, in violation of all known constitutional principles, passed a law annulling all sales and transfers of Public lands which had been previously effected, and approved of by this very same Legislature, and ordering forcible eviction of the purchasers the purchase money paid to them returned to them, and that given that sold money had been paid into the treasury.

It is quite clear that title deeds in Santa Fe are but so much waste paper, and receipts for money paid perfectly useless, unless it can be proved what the receiver did with the money. We confess no surprise if, in a country where such things are not only permitted, but sanctioned by law, that every species of disorder should exist, that every intelligent man should despise the authorities and the sapient legislators of the country; neither are we astonished to see from the Governor of such a country running deaf, with his minister at his back to try to persuade the public that all is right in Santa Fé.

All is wrong in Santa Fé, and the public have no confidence in everything in that province. We could, if, in the whole republic, we could be found who would advance one dollar on any species of property in that province. Cattle and sheep are liable to be swept off by the Indians, and Government lands by the legislators themselves. What we say is but [illegible] the next legislature of Santa Fé will pass, now that they have begun the career of retrospective legislation? Every act of Gov. Cullen may be annulled and repudiated, if the Schock reason on the 1st of January, or whatever other four or five the legislators may think proper to start at.

All the taxes which have been paid during the year may have to be paid over again, because the public can prove that the money was not spent in maté and cigars.

The fuss and nonsense which the Tribuna and Nacional make about trifles is truly disgusting; but the [illegible] exceeds even this notice. We do not participate in the abuse which these monster colleagues shower down on Señor Oroño or Gov. Cullen, for the troubles in Rosario but we deprecate, in the strongest and most unpassioned terms, the illegal, unconstitutional and unjustifiable act of spoliation to which Gov. Cullen and his Minister have afflicted their signatures.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

All friends of scientific exploration and Argentine industry will regret that the he o of the Salado has had to beat a retreat, along with our consular friend, the apostle of cotton plant g. The Nacion Argentina mentions that difficulties beset their steps from the commencement. The luggage waggons were too low and a portable boat company could not be had for the occasion. Wherever they halted, the water was salt, and this caused much privation.

At length reaching a place call Dolores Aguara, they found the Salado river dry! We are, however, informed that Sor. Rams was not at all alarmed from his ideal of making the river navigable. He has taken down his scientific notes with great precision and may send in order to lend himself to the military who, Fletcher like, [illegible] Rosario, as a sailor in the sea.

We have no fear of Mr. Hutchinson's opinions as on cotton, on cotton, he is a clear head probably offered his facilities for a trial. He was by late, report, along with Mr. Rams, at the Espinazo colony, and these before pioneers of civilization are going to [illegible] their expeditions, & relish.

The works of the Northern Railway are progressing rapidly. In a few months the road will be open to Los Cardos, as the materials have all arrived. Down in Barracas, the greatest activity prevails in the immediate vicinity of the river, where the engineer of the company has already commenced operations.

All sorts of rumours were current on the Bolsa yesterday, respecting the Indians on the frontier, and the consequences at Rosario. The object of all these false reports was quite apparent, and notwithstanding all the efforts of the brokers, ounces turned at 405, and had it not been for the [illegible] would have risen to 410.

We are happy to perceive that Mr Minister Rawson has at last taken up the cotton question; pin circular to the Provincial Governors we commend to our readers. We have received a most interesting book on cotton, from an English merchant; but as few of our countrymen are interested in the speculation, and as even the very parties to whom we have elsewhere on the subject lied, are the courtesy to acknowledge the receipt, we have purposely declined publishing anything further on the subject of cotton growing. In other countries, we might expect the graceful acknowledgment by the men in power of our efforts; but we regret to observe that here it is not so, but, on the contrary, we remark a studious anxiety on the part of many parties to persuade the public that we have nothing to do with the matter. We sent instructions for cotton growing to the Nacion Argentina, but to this hour they have never been published, & the obscure dodging and fudging over with a subject which we are well convinced is tiresome to the majority of our readers.

CHALLENGE TO THE CIRCUS.

Mr. George Wilks authorises us to say, that on his return from the camp he will bring with him a Gaucho boy who is well known as the most famous rider in the Province. If Mr. Rogers will introduce the mule Balaam on to-morrow (Saturday) night Mr. Wilks feels assured he will prove a successful rider.

MISCELLANEA.

EDWIN JAMES has pronounced in favour of Mr Seymour, the Democratic candidate at New York, and speaks for that gentleman at electoral meetings. Mr Ja mes is very severe upon the Abolitionists.

JOHN MITCHELL, we see it stated, is to Richmond. The Richmond Enquirer hopes to see John at the head of a brigade, to meet Corcoran or Meagher. They won't, we venture to say, would be happy to run John Mitchell. His plantation and negroes in Alabama have not yet been realised; but when Jeff Davis becomes Emperor of the re-constructed country, he will doubtless make John a Baron at least. Boston Pilot.

A letter from Athens says:—"A company has been formed in Greece for raising through the Isthmus of Corinth, and thus avoiding the long and dangerous coasting of the shores of the Peloponnesus. From the earliest times the immense advantage of a canal joining the two seas has been admitted. The width of the canal would be 112 feet, and its depth 25 or 30. Its length would not exceed three miles and three quarters. Excavations on both sides of the Isthmus and Machine would, to the Piræus the distance would be shortened by ninety miles. The saving of time to vessels coming from the Adriatic would be still more considerable."

The Nazione of Florence announces that the French troops at Terracina have arrested Count Famous accomplice and chief of brigands, Pomarici Zampa, surnamed Crocco. He was walking quietly in the streets of Terracina with five of his companions, when he fell in the arms of Lieut. Brandimbourg by him, recognized him and gave notice to the French. One of the companions of Crocco fired a pistol at the officer, and tried to arrest them but missed his aim, was bayoneted on the spot. The others were taken.

Garibaldi now spends nearly all his day in writing, visitors being almost entirely excluded. His appetite is first rate. An English lady, the wife of Colonel C——, who is unremitting in her attentions, has procured some turtle soup for Garibaldi, and the general seems to like it thoroughly. She has requested the kitchen for his especial use, and if she only know the exact hour at which dinner should be on the table she would serve him like a prince, but when he rings the bell half an hour before the appointed time the good creature is nearly driven to despair. Yesterday, however, his appetite was in advance, and not her soup retarded. She sent in her watch on the tray as a delicacies in the eating line the doctor makes no difficulty, but the meat obstinately refused to be overcome by the General's teeth, so the shape of pomades and ointments. Yesterday a solemn packet arrived to be delivered into the Generals own hands, and it was brought by a superior marine officer who rendered great services during the imprisonment at Varignano. He has the satisfaction of presenting it himself. It contained a large Byzantine looking stuff with directions for use, together with some red and white sweetlings to be used instead of flint. Another gift is of hares fas, the result of which, when opened on the wound, is to cause the ball to walk out of itself in the space of three or four days.

THE DUEL AT CHARLESTON.

The duel at Mayor A. Rhett and Colonel Calhoun, briefly alluded to in our American news, is thus d scribed by the Mobile Advertiser:—"Besides the principals and their surgeons it is said there were six gentlemen present at the meeting—three state Senators, the Speaker of the House of Representatives of North Carolina, a leading member of the State Convention, and a captain. Two of the Senators also held commissions as officers of the army. The arrangements of the meeting were conducted throughout with the nicest regard for the etiquette of the code, and I have heard of several of those who were on the ground who express their belief, that a more fairly fought duel never occurred. Mayor Rhett, the challenged party, waived the 'drop' shot which he preferred, and shot the 'rise.' He was dressed in full uniform: Colonel Calhoun in citizen's dress Both fired almost simultaneously, Major Rhett in an instant after Colonel Calhoun. The latter missed, and fell with a ball through the middle of his body. He survived only about an hour. The quarrel which led to this unfortunate re ult is said to have had its origin as long ago as April, 1861, at the time of the bombardment of Fort Sumter, when Major Rhett considered repeated official trespasses on his inferior officer. These led to the use on his part of offensive language, and the respetition since of these alleged trespasses, and the offensive word, by which they were met, have aggravated and complicated the affair. No explanation was asked or given. The immediate cause of the meeting was a recent difference between Major Rhett and a friend of Colonel Calhoun, who, though aware of existing difficulty, had called on Colonel Calhoun in the presence of Major Rhett. Therefore Major Rhett regarded his former demonstrations of Colonel Calhoun, which the friend latter resented as an insult to himself, and demanded satisfaction. In this first duel Major Rhett received a ball in one of his adversary, he himself firing his second shot in the air. Here the matter ingended. In conclusion Major Rhett was promptly challenged. It is said that in the latter affair he was proposed on the part of the challenger that [illegible] in the air should be allowed.
